Panel – Summer Learning

Julie McCalmont, Coordinator, Expanded Learning Programs, OUSD
Marián Guitiérrez, Director of Early Learning, Aspire Education Project
Bernadette Butler & Benjie Achtenburg, Aim High

During this session we will hear three perspectives on summer learning. Keeping students engaged over the summer is one challenge in the education field. These organizations all offer summer opportunities to Oakland students in different ways.

Questions to consider:

How do you see the “summer slide” show up in your work?

What are some ideas you’ve heard today that can help stop the summer slide for students?

What bridging opportunities are there between summer programs and school year programs?

What limitations or challenges might there be in bridging between summer and school year programs?

Summer Mini Grants Table Conversations

Wanda O’Neil, Maya Angelou Library and Literacy Center

Kacie Stratton, Harbor House Ministries

Lucy Rios, Brighter Beginnings

During this session we will have the opportunity to hear directly from organizations that used summer mini grants to develop and provide literacy opportunities for students and their communities. This is a chance to have a deeper conversation around engaging students and reaching out to communities.

Questions to consider:

What is one student engagement strategy you heard in this conversation?

What is one community outreach strategy you heard in this conversation?

What role does community outreach play in your own work?
